

2008 CLINICAL TRIALS HONOUR ROLL

INTERNATIONAL CLINICAL TRIALS DAY, 20 MAY 2008

INTRODUCTION

AccessCR is proud to deliver the first annual Australasian Clinical Trials Honour Roll.

Medical research is widely recognised by the community as a valuable service. Clinical research is a subset of medical research that helps test new ideas for their safety and efficacy in humans. The difference with clinical research is that an enormous range of different stakeholders, both volunteer and professional, are necessary for clinical trials to get off the ground and be successful. Without scientists, investigators, nurses, funding, infrastructure and equipment, regulatory and ethical oversight, collaboration, monitoring and human volunteers, clinical trials would not be possible, or as safe, and medical knowledge and treatments would not advance as quickly.

The purpose of this Honour Roll, is to provide an opportunity to publically recognise and celebrate ALL the individuals and organisations that have contributed in some way to the conduct of clinical trials in Australia and New Zealand during 2007 – 2008.

Individuals and organisations self-registered on the Honour Roll, and only a subset of these entries were verified by AccessCR. The range of roles and organisations listed show the diversity of stakeholders that are necessary to advance what we know about health, disease and treatment, for the benefit of all society. To those that have committed their bodies, time, expertise, funding and/or resources, we say Thank You.

As a new initiative, the listing does not represent every individual or organisation that has contributed to Australasian clinical trials in the past year. We hope those that have chosen to watch-and-see this year, will list themselves on the 2009 Clinical Trials Honour Roll next year with pride for their contribution, however great or small.
